

No Change in Red Spy Work, CIA Chief Says

COPYRIGHT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 (INS)—U. S. Intelligence chief Allen Dulles said Sunday he sees "no relaxation whatsoever" in Russia's world-wide subversive activities since last Summer's Geneva conference.

Dulles said "hard evidence" available to his Central Intelligence Agency shows the Reds are operating exactly as they were before the loudly proclaimed new look in Soviet foreign policy.

HE MADE KNOWN his views on a television interview with Rep. Keating (R-N. Y.), conducted in Washington for showing over Rochester and Buffalo, N. Y., stations.

Dulles pointed out Secretary of State Dulles is the man responsible for interpreting Russia's political moves.

Then he added: "But as I look at it, the question is, are they stopping any of their subversive activities in Indo-China, in Indonesia and the various parts of the world where they're particularly trying to operate and in parts of Europe?

Allen Dulles

"No, I don't think they are. I don't see any change whatever."

DISCUSSING THE Soviet's espionage system, Dulles praised their ability to collect information. But he added: "I'm not awful sure they're good in analyzing."

Dulles said the CIA compares "pretty well" with intelligence activities of other countries. He commented: "We're younger, we're newer, but I wouldn't say that we're second to any of the intelligence agencies in the free world."

Then he added: "The Soviets probably spend a good deal more money on their intelligence. They have probably a larger world-wide network than any other intelligence service because they join intelligence with subversive activity."